Dear John,

I am pleased to provide this letter of recommendation for Siam Global, a highly commendable provider of structural steel supply services. Throughout this project in Macgregor QLD for Harvey Norman, we have consistently experienced exceptional performance and dedication, making them an outstanding choice for all structural steel requirements. Below are a few examples on where they have excelled.

Siam Global possesses an unparalleled ability to create precise and accurate shop models and detailing services. Their team of skilled professionals demonstrates a profound understanding of structural engineering principles, resulting in comprehensive models that greatly facilitate the construction process. They were able to coordinate with other trades and made the sign off process with the Design structural Engineers a breeze.

One of the most notable aspects of Siam Global's services is their unwavering commitment to providing materials that strictly comply with AS Grade standards. Their stringent quality control measures ensure that all materials meet the highest industry benchmarks, ensuring the integrity and safety of the structures. They were able to provide all relevant certification details for all steel sources.

The fabrication workmanship exhibited by Siam Global is of the highest quality. Their attention to detail and precision in crafting structural components is second to none. Additionally, the comprehensive documentation they provide streamlines project coordination and ensures seamless communication. Prior to starting any fabrication, they provided all welding certification to AS to review to the design structural steel. This was also verified by local NDT testing and third-party inspections within their fabrication yard

We have been consistently impressed by Siam Global's surface treatment capabilities. Their use of advanced techniques and premium coatings enhances the aesthetics and durability of the structural steel, providing long-lasting protection against corrosion and wear. This has been verified onsite by third party painting contractors.

Siam Global demonstrates great care and diligence in packing and shipping materials. Their commitment to using secure and robust packaging materials ensures that deliveries arrive at their destination in pristine condition and on schedule. The stillages that has been delivered were purpose built and made ease of unloading and installation.

One of the standout features of Siam Global is their exceptional technical expertise and onsite support. Their team is always readily available to offer prompt and practical solutions to any challenges that arise during the project's execution, making them an invaluable partner in ensuring project success. There have been minimal issues with the supply of the steel work.

In conclusion, Siam Global has consistently surpassed our expectations as a structural steel supplier. Their dedication to excellence, adherence to industry standards, and unwavering commitment to customer satisfaction make them a reliable and trusted partner in the construction industry.

Without reservation, I highly recommend Siam Global to any organization seeking top-quality structural steel supply services. Their professionalism, reliability, and outstanding performance make them an asset to any construction project.
